WEDNESDAY, JULY 13. 1743.

Yesterday arrived a Mail from Holland.

Rome, June 29.

THE Marquis Poleni, a famous Mathematician, who came hither at the Request of the Pope, in order to give his Advice as to the necessary Repairs of the Cupalo of the Vatican, is returned back to Padua. His Holiness, at his Departure, made him a Present of a Thousand Crowns of Gold, several Me- &c. and has likewise assigned a Pension of 160 ns on the Bishoprick of Padua, in favour of one of ons of that Lord, who has dedicated himself to the e of the Church. The Marquis d'Ormea, Prime ster to the King of Sardinia, has notified to this t, the Definitive Treaty between the King, his Ma- and the Queen of Hungary, by which they are d reciprocally to defend each other's Dominions; in equence of which, 'tis said, her Hungarian Majesty immediately order a Body of 10,000 Men, of her ps, to march into Piedmont. His Holiness, who ned hither Yesterday, looks pretty well, and is said ve rested pretty well; tho', we know, a little before t Castel Gandolfo, he had a fainting Fit, the News hich alarmed us much. Publick Prayers are or- here on account of the Contageous Distemper that s at Messina, and all imaginable Precautions are to prevent its spreading in the Ecclesiastical Domi- by cutting off all Sorts of Communication with whole Island of Sicily.

ples, June 25. We now make no Doubt, that the e is broke out in Sicily; and the last Accounts we rom thence, say, there die at Messina about 300 a The Vice-Roy has cut off all Communication with City. Orders have been sent from hence to Cala- to forbid all Sort of Intercourse with the whole d of Sicily; and to secure us, as far as possible, a- all Danger, we have cut off all Communication Calabria. We have had a Grand Procession, at- d with Fasting and Prayer, that God would be d to defend us from the heavy Scourge of Pesti-

nna, July 3. We are informed that the Duke of na, and General Count de Gages, have thought fit Count Pierroni, the Queen of Hungary's Consul ncona, at Liberty, with all his Family. The Pied- ese Troops are in full March for their own Coun- and we expect, daily, a great Reinforcement from any, through Tyrol. It is most certain, that there lose Correspondence between the Courts of Vienna Turin, and if we may guess from the Preparations are making, the Spaniards will be speedily forced to venture a Battle, or retire into the Kingdom of es.

mburgh, July 16. This Day, at Noon, arrived here t-General Stahl from Sweden, with Letters from King, the Senate, and the Dyet, to the Bishop of c, Administrator of Holstein, notifying his Election ccessor to the Crown of Sweden. Two Hours af- rds our Regency had the Honour to compliment Royal Swedish Highness thereupon, and met with a gracious Reception; and immediately after their rture, a Captain's Guard, of 30 Grenadiers, mount- his Palace.

na, July 6. The Queen returned hither the Day e Yesterday, and made her Publick Entry in a Coach Six, amidst the loudest Acclamations of her faithful ects. Her Majesty forbad the Erecting of any Arches riumph, making Bonfires or Illuminations, because Victories hitherto obtained by her Majesty's Arms, occasioned a great Effusion of German Blood; and she hath been compelled thereto by the strongest ssity, yet her Majesty thinks it a Reason sufficient nder all Rejoicings. In the Evening, the whole erial Family supp'd with the Empress Dowager. e Lobkowitz is preparing to set out for Italy, in to take upon him the Command in Chief of her sty's Forces in that Country; Count Traun, by n of his great Age and Infirmity, having desired e to retire. Count Burghausen arrived here this ning, with Six and twenty Standards taken at Brau- where the Garison were constrained to surrender ners of War.

ubourg, July 9. The Queen of Hungary's Army is l March for the Frontiers of France, after having obliged to make a longer Stay than was intended at n, on account of the Bread first baked there proving fit to eat; which obliged the Troops to wait, til they could have a Supply from the neighbouring Towns. The First Column march'd Yesterday, about Six in the Morning, the Second about One in the Afternoon, the Third about Two this Morning. The Artillery is with the Second Column, but the heavy Baggage still continues at Rayn. These Troops will make some forc'd Marches, in order, if possible, to reach the Rhine before the Marshals Broglio and Noailles can repass it, and force them to a Battle. This is, by far, the finest and most numerous Army the House of Austria has had in the Empire for Two Centuries past. It consists of 22 Regiments of Foot, and 22 of Horse. Many of the former are composed of three, and none fall short of 2000 Men. The Regiments of Horse are not only compleat, but most of them have Supernumeraries, and Abundance of Officers who are Volunteers. The Soldiers are perfectly well cloathed, the Train of Artillery perfectly fine, and, with respect to Ammunition, Pontons, and other Instruments of War, they are as well provided, as any Dutch Body of Troops ever were. The sole Difficulty is, to find Subsistance for 60,000 Men, exclusive of Hussars and Irregular Troops, in a Country already eaten up; especially considering that, thro' their unexpected March, Count Khevenhuller, the most provident General that ever commanded, has not had Time to cause proper Magazines to be erected, except in the Brisgaw, where there are said to be some very considerable. To obviate this Inconveniency it has been found necessary to demand of the Circle of Suabia 300,000 Portions of Bread. The Prince of Lichtenstein, formerly Ambassador in France, and Lieutenant Field-Marshal Count de Konigsegg, have been sent to Augsbourg upon this Occasion, with some Commissaries for Provisions. Their Demand has been granted, tho' Provisions and Forage are become excessively scarce and dear throughout the whole Circle of Suabia; the French having drawn prodigious Quantities from thence, in order to fill their Magazines on the Danube, where they afterwards destroy'd the far greatest Part of them. This Day Prince Charles hath given a grand Entertainment at Dillingen, to all the General Officers in his Army.

Manheim, July 12. The Army of M. Broglio is defiling thro' our Neighbourhood for Alsace. The Reserve has already repassed the Rhine, and the last Column arrived on Monday at Simzheim. How much Haste soever they have made, they could not out-run the Austrian Hussars, who have very frequently come up with them, and done them a great deal of Mischief. Between Oebringen and Schwaebischall they carried off a great Number of Waggons, and Abundance of Horses, after having cut to Pieces three Companies of Grenadiers that guarded them. On the 9th they surprized and carried off the Bridge at Jastfeldt, and several Pieces of Cannon; on the 10th they fell in with the Baggage and Ammunition Waggons; the next Morning they seized the Magazine at Wimsen; besides these they have gained other Advantages. The Austrian Army continues its March with all Diligence for the Rhine, while the French are no less diligent in their Endeavour to repass it, and get out of their Reach; which is said to be the Substance of the last Orders sent to M. Noailles. Prince Charles of Lorrain has written a very obliging Letter to our Elector.

Franckfort, July 15. M. Noailles came to this City on the 11th, and had a long Conference with his Imperial Majesty; he returned to his Camp in the Evening, but in the Night abandon'd, and set Fire to it, retiring into the Country of Darmstadt. Some of the Independent Companies belonging to the Army of the Allies fell upon his Rear, carried off the Marquis de Beauveau, who is wounded, and all his Equipage. The Count de Lautrec, Ambassador from his most Christian Majesty, amuses himself with giving us abundance of fine political Reasons of this March; but as we know the true one, he might spare himself all this Pains. The Marshal had Intelligence of Prince Charles's Approach, and this it was that put him in such a Hurry, and obliged him to burn a vast Quantity of Hay and Forage. On the 14th he marched to Gerau, and is said to have continued his March this Day towards the Rhine. Yesterday, about Noon, Count de Lautree had an Audience of the Emperor, and presented him two Letters, one from the King his Master, and the other from M. Noailles. The Allies affect the greatest Secrecy in their Councils, yet notwithstanding this, we think we have good Grounds to believe they intend, in Conjunction with Prince Charles, to pursue the French. The Dyet of the Empire, agreeable to their Resolution of the 8th, have written to the States General, and to the King of Great Britain, to desire their Interposition, jointly with themselves, for restoring the Peace of Germany.

Hague, July 20. The Partizans of France have left nothing unattempted, in order to make the great Successes of the Queen of Hungary, and the Allies, appear just Causes for delaying the March of our Succours. But at the late Conference, M. Van Haaren answered all their Arguments very fully, adding, that these Successes were the best Reasons in the World, not only for hastning the March of the Auxiliaries, but for increasing their Number, that by a decisive Stroke the War might be determined at once. Brigadier Wolterus being dead, their High Mightinesses have bestowed his Regiment upon General Prætorius. This Morning Baron Reisach, her Hungarian Majesty's Minister Plenipotentiary, receiv'd a Cabinet Courier from Vienna, with the following important Pieces of News; viz. That the Queen, his Mistress, had concluded a Provisional Treaty with the Emperor; that the French Army were in full March for their own Country; and that the Austrian Hussars had actually begun to raise Contributions in Alsace.

LONDON.

The Pope has fixed the 8th of August, N. S. for the grand Promotion of Cardinals, which hath been so long and earnestly expected; and it will then appear whether France hath that Interest at the Court of Rome with which she flatters herself.

Baron de Alderfeldt, who was wounded in the late Skirmish at Stockholm, is since dead of that Wound; which is said to have irritated the Dyet extremely against the Peasants, and their Abettors.

As soon as the News of the Election of the Bishop of Lubec arrived at Copenhagen, the King caused a great Council of State to be held, at the rising of which, Orders were sent for the Fleet to put to Sea, under the Command of Admiral Krag.

By private Letters from Paris we learn, that the last Courier from Spain brought Advices that were kept extremely secret; that however it was suspected they related to the Health of the King of Spain, who, according to some private Letters, was very near his End.

The Emperor having sent a formal Accusation against M. Broglio, he is said to be in absolute Disgrace, which is more probable, since he had Orders to quit the Command of the Army as soon as it had passed the Rhine, and to leave it to the Count de Saxe.

Yesterday 20,000 Ounces of foreign Silver Coin, and 6000 Ounces of foreign Gold Coin, were Shipp'd for Holland.

The same Day was held a Court of Aldermen, when Stephen Daubuz, Esq; swore off from serving the Office of Sheriff of this City; and Thomas Lockyer, Esq; refused serving the Office, on account of his being a Dissenter.

To-morrow a Court of Hustings will be held at Guildhall for the Election of two Sheriffs for the Year ensuing.

On Saturday last one Ridge, alias Conner, was committed by Justice Dennet to New Prison, for Inlisting Men into Foreign Service.

From the London Gazette.
